Coursework Reference & Keypoints:
- Thebana Noise Clubs (Black noise/hardcore/hate crimes)
- The Art of Food
- Niigata Machine Techno
- The Information Wars 2000 - 2030

Learning Outcomes: 2, 14, 18, 22

For the Learning Outcomes Qualitative Parameters, please refer to your Course Handbook, section 4.22a.
If you have not yet received your Course Handbook, you must apply in person to the course administrator's office.
It is a requirement of this Institute that you have access to a copy of the Course Handbook throughout your studies.

Lecture Keypoints:

The Lomax Paradigm:

Using Capsel create a 5-D culturespace whose axes are Halob Electronic Pastoral, Lomax Agrarian, Želkova Primitive Communal, a Sheet-Bepps standard axis and a time axis.

Locate Niigata Machine Techno in the space.

What do you notice? How does it differ from a Standard Neural Scramble map? What can you observe about the relationship between NMT in this space and its location on an SNS map? Which do you think would be the more useful tool for understanding the following? :

- Manga and Futunari drawing Japan c 2010
- Valheline Breath Languages
- American Sacred Harp Singing
- Late 20th century ‘international’ cuisine
- East African Free Jazz (eg Dûdu Pâkâna, Curtis Olung) 2020-2030

Reading Reference:
- ‘Re-imaging Lost Cultures’ - Suselle Lomax-Buraní, Mumbai Multiversity Net
- ‘Futunari: Navigating Genderspace in early 21st Century Asian Art’ - Cornell and Samara Buck, genderspace infonet
- ‘Beauty and the Beast: Futunari and Newgender experience’ - Clover Moore, moor-imageweb.org
- ‘Feeding the Spirit: Ecstatic Cuisine Cults in Middle Class Europe at the Millennial Cusp’ - Gordon Heston-White, ghwbx.org

Learning outcomes: Development of the imaginative role in cultural deduction and its relationship to re-creative modelling. This module clicks 10 bars on 10A chart.
